MAKING MORE HEALTH POSSIBLE

FIELD NOTE · CLINICAL TRIAL SITES

You won the study. Now you have to fund it.

The money for your next study is already earned. It's just stuck in sponsor payments.

Hire the coordinator before first patient in, or wait for the startup payment. Fund the recruitment campaign, or hope enrollment comes on its own. Reconcile another visit against the CTMS and payment portal. Chase an invoice from a study that closed months ago. Site leaders make these calls every week, and together they turn a research team into a collections department. That's not why you started a research site.

Say you just signed a new study. Your experience says sites that enroll fastest are the ones that get the next study. You need a second coordinator hired, trained and recruiting within weeks.

Meanwhile, visits from last quarter on three other studies are still waiting on sponsor payments. So the hire waits. Enrollment stalls. The sponsor notices.

You may already work with a bank for big items, like an equipment loan. But study startup moves too fast for a loan and costs too much to pull from reserves. So it lands on credit cards, or it waits. That's the gap Stream fills.

HOW IT WORKS

Stream buys the sponsor payments you've already earned, at a fee agreed up front.

Completed visits and milestones in your clinical trial agreements become cash now, not in 90 days. When the sponsor or CRO pays, that payment goes to Stream.

Not a loan.
It's a true sale. No new debt, no interest, nothing to repay.

No personal guarantee.
Your home and savings stay out of it.

You choose what to sell.
Pick the studies and invoices. One study, one pool.

Works alongside your lender.
We'll work through existing liens with you and your bank.

Come back when you need it.
Use it for the next study. Or not.

Have a study that's waiting on cash? Let's take twenty minutes and size it together.
